

10TH ANNUAL
WEST COAST WORKSHOP IN INTERNATIONAL FINANCE
April 4, 2025

Call for papers and workshop announcement
Submission Deadline: January 13th

The 10th annual West Coast Workshop in International Finance will be held at Santa Clara University on Friday, April 4th. (Past workshop agendas can be seen here.)

We encourage submissions in all areas of open-economy macroeconomics and international finance. Policy-relevant theoretical work, empirical research, computational work, and historical approaches are all welcome. Each accepted paper will be assigned a discussant.

Please submit full papers using this form. Note that for co-authored papers, the submitting author is expected to present.

The deadline for paper submissions is Monday, January 13th

The selection committee will choose the papers to be presented at the conference and will notify presenters by mid-February. There is no registration fee, however paper presenters will be responsible for their own travel expenses.

The WCWIF 2025 selection committee includes:

Joshua Aizenman, University of Southern California
Paul Bergin, University of California, Davis
Luigi Bocola, Stanford University
Vito Cormun, Santa Clara University, (Co-organizer)
Galina Hale, University of California, Santa Cruz
Viktoria Hnatkovska, University of British Columbia
Helen Popper, Santa Clara University, (Co-organizer)
Sanjay Singh, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, and University of California, Davis (Co-organizer)
Mark Spiegel, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco
Chenzi Xu, University of California, Berkeley

The workshop is sponsored by the Center for Pacific Basin Studies at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and the Department of Economics at Santa Clara University.

Please share this call with colleagues who may be interested.